"Silver" King was superb yesterday afternoon, and to his pitching can be ascribed the victory of the Senators over | Carsey, p. 0 1 1 4 1 the Louisvilles by a score of 4 to 2. The home team fielded almost perfectly, and the errors charged to DeMontreville and Selbach did not in any way cut a figure in the score.

Nine clean hits were made by Wagner's Wonders, and they had much to do with sending the four runs across the plate-McCreery's wild throw let in one score and another should have been added. As it was, Umpire Emslie allowed a dead bail to be in play, and called Tucker on at the plate. Werden geiting the put-out and

Butler the assist. The ball thrown by the outfielder bounded into the grand stand. Butler went after it, but a young lady had picked up the ball and handed it to the catcher. There was a genuine kick by Tom Brown and some others of the Senatorial fellows, but the empire would not allow the claim The general verdict was that if the fair fans had been out in force the visiting player would never have got the ball. Tem Brown gave a wonderful exhibi tion of sprinting in the outfield. He rat way into Selbach's territory and captured Butler's short fly on a dead run, and as he caught the ball he fell and rolled over

The 2,000 spectators went wild with en-thusiasm, and shouted themselves hourse. Conningham, heretofore effective against the Schators, was found early in the game, and was hit opportunely O'Brien cracked out two long doubles. he persisted in his refusal.

Martin has been served with a notice that he was hable to arrest for his failure to provide his premises with proper drain age three times, but never paid the slighest attention to the warnings. Finally, after a private interview with him, in which a private interview with him in which him in which a private interview with him the only excuse he would give was that the had no ready money. Inspector Bendmont could see no other course but to take out a warrant for him.

Accordingly Mr Martin was in the police court yesterday, attired in a sik but and well-fitting frock coat, which accorded illy with the plea of poverty which he made in answer to the charge against him.

Martin asknowledged that he owned his house, valued at $2,000, but laughed at the suggestion made by the judge and the assistant district attorney that he should mortgage his house for $50 and have the work done. "My property has always been without incumbrance," he said, "and I propose to keep it so."

It was developed that Mr. Martin has a son in good circumstances, but here again the defendant refused to accept the court's suggestion, that he apply to him for help. "Now, Mr. Martin, I am willing to give you thirty days within which to comply with the regulations. Will you promise to have the connections made in that time?"

asked Judge Kimball, in a kindly tone. "No, sir; I will not promise anything." "Why will you not borrow $50 on you property!" arged Assistant District Attorney Mullowny.

"Because I don't choose to."
"Then," said Mr. Mullowny, losing patience, "I would ask your honor not to offer the defendant any further favors. We have held out to him everything within reason, but he seems determined to be imprisoned and I do not see what the tice will again be served upon you to comply with the regulations, and upon your fa luce to do so, you will again be brought before me. So that unless you either sell your house or connect it with the sewer you would bid fair to spend the rest of your life in jail."

"Now, I don't know when I have bad a more distasteful task than that of sen teneing a man of your evident age and respectability to jail, but as you so stubbornly decline to meet any of my proposal half way, the law leaves me no alternative I shall have to fine you $151-one dollar for each day which has passed since the notice was first served upon you, and in default of payment you are sentenced to thirty days in Juit."

"As I cannot pay my fine," said Mr. Martin, indifferently, "I will have to serve out my sentence," and he walked back into the dock, there to wait, with the other prisoners, for the van to convey their
